

Bella

My dog's name is Bella. I really think Bella should be top dog because I really love her. Bella is literally a part of me. She is always in my head and in my heart. She is part of my soul.

Bella is a healthy cheerful dog. Every day when I come home she is the first thing I see. I get to relive the day I first met her. I was a foster child then. I'm now adopted. When I walked into my new home for the first time the first thing I saw was Bella. I immediately fell in love with the small dog.

She is bigger now and more accustomed to me since I've known her for about 5 years. Bella always has seemed to know when I'm sad. She always tries to make me happy. Sometimes I'll put my face on the ground and whimper like a hurt dog and she'll be all over me.

Bella is a papillon. She's my beautiful butterfly dog. She's big enough that my sister (she's 5) can't carry her, but she's small enough that she can lay on me. When she does she will lay her head on my stomach. Other times she will just lay beside my belly and softly whack her tail on my face. She is a beautiful black and white dog. Her tail is all right though.

Bella is a wonderful dog and I really love her. Whether I win or lose this I will always love her my precious butterfly. ~~Bella~~ that's why my dog should be top dog.
