Adopt a Pet

Dear Jacqueline,

Congratulations to Wadsworth senior golfer Secilia Ho, who was medalist at the Girls Division One Golf Sectional last week and then qualified for State competition this week, as did Cloverleaf golf Averi Hanna! Best of luck in Columbus!

Happy 100th birthday to Grace Shanfelt, who celebrated with nearly 200 people last month at St. Paul Lutheran Church in Sharon Township! Grace was born in Sharon Township in 1918 and graduated from Sharon High School in 1936.

Know a 4th grader in Medina County? Remind them to write their essay on why their dog is the Top Dog in Medina County this month! Our 24th Annual Top Dog Contest is now open to all public, private and home-schooled 4th graders in the county! Children are eligible for prizes for their dog, themselves and Tag #1 for their dog! Students can submit only one essay (solely written by them) about why they think their, or a particular dog, is the Top Dog in Medina County. All entries must be received in the auditor's office by Monday, November 5. INFO

Letha Mapes, president of the Lodi Harrisville Historical Society, noted in her Trading Post column this week that Higbee's of Cleveland started in Lodi, WWII atomic bomb parts were manufactured in Lodi and that Louisville Slugger baseball bat blanks were manufactured in Lodi! I like it!

Interested in advertising your community event in the Weekend Update? Just email us the information to mkovack@medinaco.org! We typically only list events two weeks out, so be patient! ;)

Wishing you all the best!

Highland's Raley climbing baseball ladder with Twins

Luke Raley has been a minor-leaguer for three seasons. So he gets it. That is, he understands that baseball is a game, but at the professional level, it's a business.

That point was indelibly tattooed on his brain when he was sent from the Los Angeles Dodgers to the Minnesota Twins less than an hour before the July 31 trading deadline.

"He was surprised," said Beth Raley, his mother. "It was tough to leave all the people he has known, but he looked at it as an opportunity. It was a shock, though.

"I was at work. A friend texted me and asked, 'Is it true?' I don't even know if Luke knew then. He was walking on the field and got a call from a player development guy."

Baseball has been a family affair for the Raleys, who own Raley's Tree Farms in Hinckley. Luke's father, Douglas, played at Cuyahoga Community College and Cleveland State. Luke graduated from Highland High School and attended Division II Lake Erie College in Painesville, just like his older

Spirits seem to like Lodi

Perhaps the Lodi haunting legends started when Lodi founder Judge Joseph Harris built his first home atop sacred Native American burial grounds and removed the skeletons from the graves.

Or, perhaps the legends persist because of the number of murdered, unidentified or impoverished people buried in its cemeteries more than a century ago. Whatever the reason, the tiny southwestern Medina County village of Lodi is believed to be a haunted place.

With Halloween approaching, townspeople anticipate an increase in the number of "ghost-hunters" visiting the village in search of earthbound spirits and things that go bump in the night. Over the years, people have reported seeing disembodied shadows moving through the cemeteries and mysterious lights that travel the railroad tracks at night.

Even Letha Mapes, president of the Lodi Harrisville Historical Society said she has felt the presence of a spirit in the Waite-House. The offices and museum at 111 Harris St., was the former home of Dr. James Waite, who married the great-granddaughter of Lodi founder Judge Joseph Harris, one of the first judges appointed for Medina County.

Mapes embraces the town's reputation, especially in the spooky month of October.

park district experience to the role held for 25 years by recent retiree Tom James.

"The board of park commissioners, last year, retained the Ohio Parks and Recreation Association to do a search knowing that Tom James would retire this year," Eppink said Thursday morning. "They wanted to find an individual that could learn alongside Tom and transition into the director. They did a statewide search and ultimately chose me."

Park District Commissioner Dennis Neate said the position attracted a significant amount of interest throughout the state and Eppink was one of six candidates brought in for an initial interview.

"Nate was a leading candidate from the start with his personality, his experience and his style," Neate said. "He came to us from Summit Metro Parks as a communications professional and that is an invaluable piece of the job in our opinion."

Eppink officially joined the Medina County Park District as the capital projects coordinator last February.

Eppink said during that time he worked on a number of projects

Boots, Brews and BBQ

Eppink said during that time he worked on a number of projects

varying from parking lot stripping and restroom installation to attending public meetings and observing park programs.

"It has really been a great opportunity to learn and get my feet wet here before becoming the director," he said.

Eppink said it was made clear early on that would have big shoes to fill in Medina County. James retired Sept. 30.

"Really, Tom and our board have set up this organization to succeed," Eppink said. "We have levy funding through 2025, a lot of great projects on the drawing board, so really the opportunity to continue that legacy is what attracted me to Medina County Park District."

Dr. Thomas Ebner is a gentleman -- soft-spoken, quick to smile, an attentive listener and a devoted father and grandfather. He's also been someone people can turn to when their lives are a little, well, fractured.

Ebner treated thousands of orthopedic patients in Medina from 1976 until his retirement in 2007.

Since then, he has expanded the scope of his medical practice to include Southern Ohio and Africa.

One week a month, Ebner travels to Gallipolis, Ohio, to do locum tenens work - or as he calls it, "rent a doc" -- at a small hospital that desperately needed an extra doctor.

In 2010, Ebner connected with an outreach program in Africa called Samaritan's Purse. Since then, he has spent four to six weeks almost every year at an Evangelical Mission Hospital in Kenya, performing orthopedic surgery from sunrise to sunset.

On his last overseas stint, retired Medina cardiologist Dr. Terry Tulisak and Ebner's grandson Sam joined him for part of the trip.

commissioners will vote on Mike Salamone's hiring as transit administrator at their meeting this morning in Warren.

Salamone, who has been Medina County's transit director for nearly a decade, announced his resignation Tuesday, effective Oct. 26

"This was an opportunity that came up that I couldn't pass up," he said.

Salamone, who earned $68,000 this year, said that it is a financially a good move for him.

Salamone's new salary was not available Tuesday as the contract with Trumbull County is not final.

He said Trumbull also has better benefits.

"It was a combination of things," Salamone said.

Salamone replaced Scott Uhas as MCPT director in 2009. Salamone said he would most miss the people in Medina County, most notably his staff. Salamone said there are about 45 employees in the MCPT, including 14 full-time employees.

Scott Miller, county administrator, said Salamone informed him late last week that he was leaving.
